Revelation is the manifestation of the divine will as it happens in the real world. In the case of Islam, the revelation is recorded in the holy book of the Quran. The Quran is the supreme source of Islamic law and guidance. It is considered to be the word of God, revealed to the Prophet Muhammad through his angel Gabriel. The Quran contains narratives that describe the Prophet's life, his interactions with God, and important historical events. It also includes the basic tenets of Islamic faith and practice.
